Hey, Summer has arrived!

It's time of the year again when we try to dodge thunderstorms and brave the heat and humidity that send lots of our members up north. Like our fellow Florida chapters this means that the attendance at our events drop by fifty percent or more. It's really hard to get fired up about a ride when it's 90 plus degrees and the humidity is also 90 percent. Just remember that the moisture that you perspire needs to be replaced in an ongoing basis – not just at the end of the activity. You'll notice that the July calendar reflects doing indoor and evening events.

Please remember to bring your donations of school supplies to any of our kick tires or Gatherings before August – school starts early this year. Also, Clothes to Kids is in need of items for the upcoming school year. Those items will be collected at our monthly Gathering unless other arrangements are made.

It is also that time of year when we are looking for items that we can sell at our annual rummage sale in August. It may surprise you how long lots of items sit in a closet for years being forgotten and not used. How about donating them?

The month of June has come and gone and unfortunately it turned out to be a bummer. We had to sadly inform you that two of our members had passed due to ongoing illnesses. Joyce Hartley and Bobbie Hardesty both spent many good times with us and they will certainly be missed.

All our rides scheduled for June were rained out. We only had two hardy souls (Art and Steven) that rode to the Brandon Gathering while the rest of us four wheeled it. I understand they got wet heading home – our hats are off to them!

We tried out supporting the Heartland Triathlon in Sebring. The event was very nice but again the weather, other than during the event itself, was unrelenting. We encountered a monsoon going over and coming back. Fortunately we opted to use the Harley trick of trailering our bikes over, which was a good call. (Last month's Wing World had a good article about trailering your bike.)

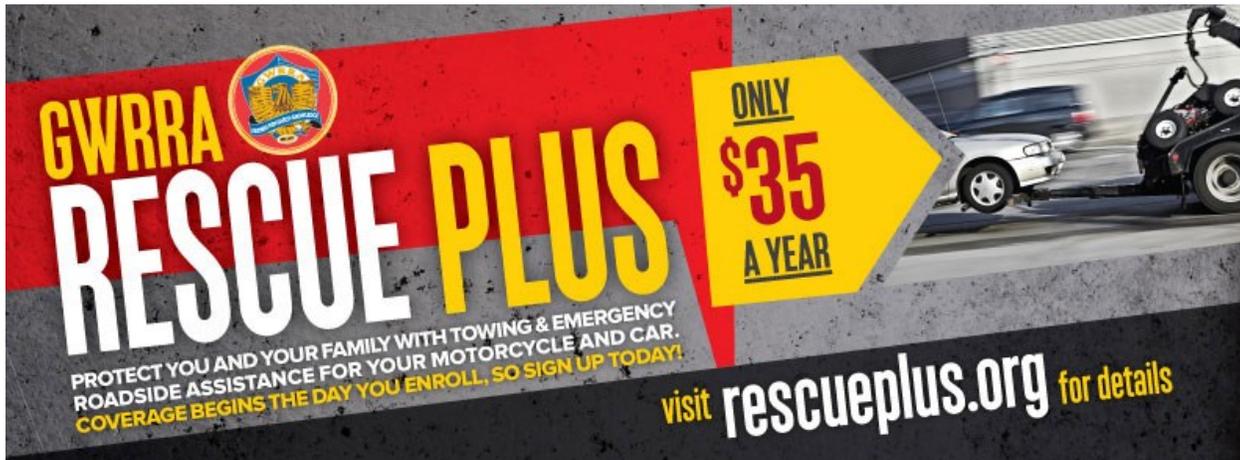

Tom and Ruth have been keeping us updated on their trip heading north to visit our members in Canada and those along the way. Here is a link to view their progress.

Finally, our chapter directors will be returning from their month long trip around the Mediterranean and Europe. I imagine they'll have lots to tell us.

Here's looking forward to some cooler, drier weather.

Assistant Chapter Directors

AAA reports motorcycle fatalities rose more than 23 percent in Florida in 2015

554 motorcyclists died in Florida last year

WFTS

TAMPA, Fla. - Fatal accidents involving motorcyclists in Florida dramatically increased in 2015.

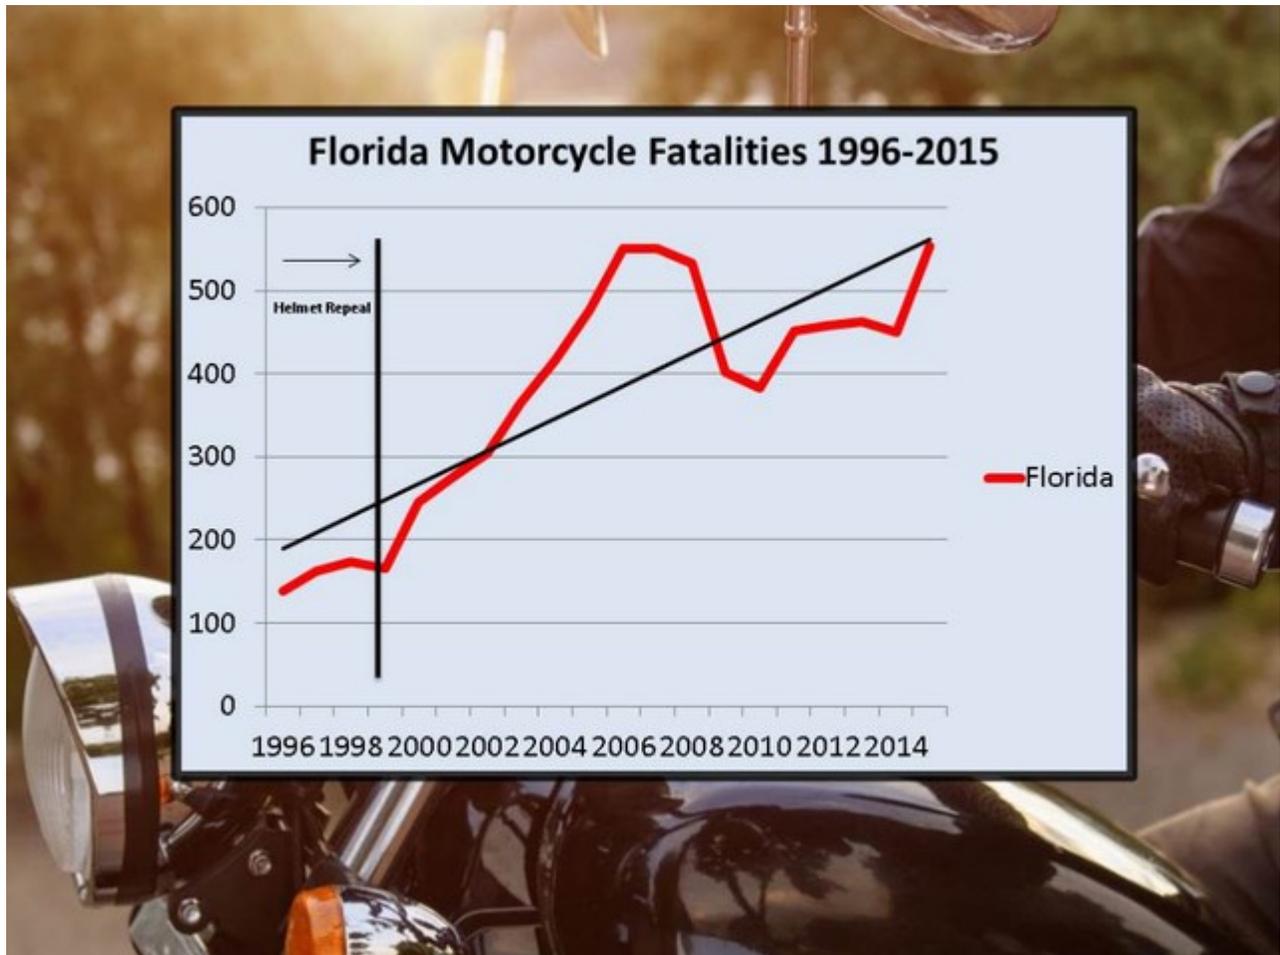

AAA reports 554 motorcyclists died on Florida roads and highways last year, a 23 percent increase over the 449 killed in 2014.

A major reason is a majority of bikers do not wear recommended safety gear. According to the University of South Florida's Center for Urban Transportation Research (CUTR), more than half (50.4%) of motorcyclists were observed not wearing a helmet while riding in Florida.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) says 37 percent of motorcyclist fatalities could have been prevented by wearing a helmet.

In 2000, the Florida Legislature changed the state's motorcycle law to no longer require a biker over the age of 21 to wear a helmet provided they are covered by an insurance policy covering a minimum of $10,000 in medical benefits for injuries incurred in a crash.

"Since the repeal of the helmet law in Florida, motorcycle fatalities have more than doubled," said Karen Morgan, Public Policy Manager for AAA. "While helmet laws are a controversial issue, AAA strongly supports helmet laws. Bottom line helmets save lives."

According to a recent AAA Consumer Pulse survey, nearly one in six motorcyclists (16%) do not carry motorcycle insurance. The same study also found 32 percent of Florida motorcyclists do not think they should be required to wear a helmet when riding.

The fallout from a motorcycle death is not just limited to the biker's immediate family. The NHTSA reports the estimated economic cost to society of each motorcycle fatality is $1.48 million for lost productivity; medical, legal, court, emergency services and insurance costs; property damage; and workplace losses.

There are steps drivers and motorcyclists can take to reduce fatal accidents.

"Bikers should do everything possible to make themselves visible to motorists while riding," said AAA spokesman Josh Carrasco. "Motorists need to keep their attention on the task of driving and be alert for increased motorcycle traffic."

AAA says safety gear, including helmets, eye wear, closed-toe footwear and protective clothing help reduce a motorcyclist's risk of injury or death in a crash. Bikers should make sure they are visible on roadways by using headlights, wearing bright clothing or using reflective strips.

AAA also asks motorcyclists get proper training and to use sound judgment by avoid weaving between lanes while riding.

The auto agency says motorists need to respect motorcyclists by giving them ample room and actively look for bikers in traffic. Because most car-versus-motorcycle crashes occur during left-hand turns, drivers need to take extra caution when making left-hand turns.

AAA warns every motorist to not drive distracted. A driver who takes their eyes off the road for any reason for two seconds doubles their risk of getting into a crash.

GHSA Predicts a Ten Percent Increase in Motorcycle Fatalities

Last month the Governors Highway Safety Administration (GHSA) published a report utilizing preliminary motorcycle crash data for 2015. The report predicts a 10% increase in motorcycle fatalities nationwide for 2015

(http://www.ghsa.org/files/pubs/spotlights/motorcycles\_2015.pdf). According to the report, thirty-one states saw motorcycle fatalities increase while only sixteen saw a decrease.

Unsurprisingly, the GHSA report did not merely provide facts. It advocated a position that motorcycling is becoming increasingly dangerous, and that states need to implement restrictions on risky behavior responsible for the rise in motorcycle fatalities. Specifically, the GHSA report draws a correlation between the rise in motorcycle fatalities and the failure of all states to implement a universal helmet law.

Let me be clear. The purpose of this article is not to advocate riding without a helmet or to question the effectiveness of motorcycle helmets. I will leave each reader to reach their own conclusions on that topic. My purpose is to question the accuracy of the correlations that the GHSA draws in explaining the rise in motorcycle fatalities.

While motorcycle fatalities did increase, traffic fatalities as a whole are predicted to be up 10% for 2015.

(<http://www.ghsa.org/html/media/pressreleases/2016/20160524uber.html>). This would suggest that the rise in fatalities in 2015 is not unique to motorcyclists. It does not mean that the rise is linked to risky behavioral traits shared by many motorcyclists. It would seem the rise in motorcycle fatalities in 2015 is part of an overall trend affecting all motorists.

Further, the report fails to provide data supporting its correlation between the rise in motorcycle fatalities and the lack of universal helmet laws. Currently, nineteen states have a universal helmet law in place. Thirty-one do not. Of the nineteen states that currently have a universal helmet law, twelve experienced an increase in motorcycle fatalities in 2015. Of the sixteen states that saw a decrease in motorcycle fatalities, only six have a universal helmet law. The other ten either allow adults to make their own choice or have no law at all.

The report also points out that Michigan saw an increase in motorcycle fatalities in 2015. It suggests that the increase is due to the state's modification of its helmet law in 2012, which allowed adult riders to choose whether or not to wear a helmet. However, the report fails to explain the 18.8% decrease in motorcycle fatalities between 2013 and 2014. (http://www-nrd.nhtsa.dot.gov/departments/nrd-30/ncsa/STSI/26\_MI/2014/26\_MI\_2014.htm)

Compare this report to past GHSA reports which showed decreases in motorcycle fatalities. In May of 2015 the GHSA reported a drop in motorcycle fatalities for the second straight year. That report stated the following:

There is little evidence that risk factors for motorcyclists have been reduced in recent years, and fluctuations in motorcyclist fatalities are likely to have more to do with economic factors and weather patterns affecting exposure.

Then there is the following from the 2014 preliminary report which showed a 7% reduction in motorcycle fatalities:

Weather, according to the report, was the predominate factor to explain the drop in motorcyclist fatalities from 2012 to 2013.

My concern is not simply with this particular report. It is the way the mainstream views motorcycle fatalities as opposed to overall traffic fatalities. When motorcycle fatalities fluctuate upward, the motorcycling community is responsible. It is their risky behavior causing the rise. However, when fatalities decrease from one year to another, it is due to outside factors unrelated to efforts within the motorcycling community to improve motorcycle safety.

The fact is that, according to the latest figures published by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), motorcycle safety has been steadily improving since 2005. Motorcycle registrations have increased by more than 35% since 2005 while fatalities per 100,000 registered motorcyclists have decreased by almost 26%. (<http://www-nrd.nhtsa.dot.gov/Pubs/812261.pdf>) Estimated motorcycle vehicle miles traveled have increased 91% since 2005. Fatalities per 100 million vehicle miles traveled have decreased by more than 47%.

While any increase in motorcycle fatalities is unwelcomed news, this latest report should not be met with panic. There is no need for a legislative rush to the state and federal code books in order to enact more regulation. Motorcyclists are in the midst of a sustained period of improvement in motorcycle safety. Let's continue to emphasize training, education and awareness. They are the pillars of a safety strategy which prevent the crashes that are taking too many riders from us.

Since 2005 we have seen an overall improvement in both the quality and quantity of rider training available to both new and experienced riders. Now is the time to double down on what has proven to be effective.

GOLDWING TICKETS

The Chapter has 3500 Goldwing tickets to sell. Please contact Tracy and Sharon Dunn for tickets. We will have them at the kick tires and General Gathering.

The Chapter needs your help to sell them and the new incentives (in addition to the free book for selling 10 books) are listed below.....

If our northern members would like tickets mailed to them....please send us a email with correct mailing address and number of tickets requested.

Remember that these ticket sales pays for all of your Rider Education (CPR/First Aid, ERC, TRC etc.) in the state of Florida.

If you will notice on the ticket stub, (the short stub you keep and put in the barrel), you will find a line marked "SOLD BY". When each ticket is sold the person selling it needs to put their name on that ticket. When the prize winning tickets are pulled at the rally, the person that sold the winning bike ticket will receive a cash prize of no less than $200.00. (Depending on the amount of tickets sold it may even be more.) The $1000 winning ticket and the $500 winning ticket sales person/s will also receive a cash prize, (to be determined).

Any and all chapters selling 1500 or more tickets will have their annual charter fees paid for by the district which is $100
